Now when the buds begin to show,
'Tis time for young and old to know
That Seltzer's Bitter is the best
The hills at Indigestion's call,
With every trouble, ache or pain,
That follows in the Bitter train,
Will scatter like the thieves of night,
Before a draught of Seltzer's Bitter,

A New Use for Flint.

An Eastern man has discovered a process by the addition of other cheap ingredients of melting ordinary flint stone at a low temperature. This discovery has been covered by patents, and is in the hands of an Eastern syndicate. The process produces a beautiful marble like composition, and will be used for making encaustic tiling, laundry and bath tubs and in the production of works of art. Its wonderful cheapness will enable its introduction below the cost of anything of the kind in the market. It has been found to be superior to either glass or rubber as an electrical non-conductor, and its use in this direction bids fair to be large.—Detroit Free Press.

They Won't Have It.

The Elko Independent says: An item is going the rounds of the press to the effect that an Elko man claimed and received a bounty on the scalp of a Newfoundland dog which was presented as a bear scalp. A newspaper man ought to know that there is no law in this State for the payment of a bounty on bear scalps, and it is a reproach on the intelligence of our Justice of the Peace to insinuate that he does not know the difference between a bear and a Newfoundland dog. Besides our Commissioners are not so reckless as to pay bounties not authorized by law on the scalps of noxious or domestic animals.

Attention Custer Post.

The members of Custer Post G. A. R. and all other veterans are requested to meet at the Post Hall on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of attending divine services. Uniform.

ALL SORTS.

—Wizard Oil at Geo. Thaxter's.
—Kilrain wants to fight Ryan.
—Reno is to have another paper.
—Senator Stewart will not be back for several days.
—During the week 3,550 acres of land were applied for.

—The circus will be along soon. John Robinson's this time.

—When attending that Mugwump banquet in Reno last Summer.
—Secretary Dormer says that the laws will soon be ready for distribution.

—There will be no paper issued from this office on Tuesday morning.

—A Carson man who was recently asked which was the tightest fix he ever was in, replied:

—Congressman Woodburn returned to the city yesterday, and will spend some time here.

—Theo. Winters the Washoe horseman is in the city and will be at the track on Monday.

—The flowers for Decoration Day will arrive by express today, and be placed by the ladies in the U. S. Land Office.

—Old "Saratoga" came into town yesterday to get weighed. The bull turned the scale at 1,750 pounds.

—Calcutta was visited by a destructive cyclone yesterday, and a steamer with 750 persons on board is missing.

—A colliery explosion in Blantyre, Scotland, entombed over 200 miners, yesterday. But few were rescued alive.

—Shaw of the Hot Springs is a happy man. He has discovered the cause of the leak in the Springs and will have the water back to its old level.

—DIED.—At the residence of Geo. J. Hyde, near Davenport, Iowa, John T. Fintel, brother-in-law of Mrs. Heku and Mrs. Anderson of this place.

—Thomas Starr King never said a wiser thing than when he announced as the indispensable gospel of economy—smaller farms, more labor on them, and a reverence for manure.

—It is said that the inter-State law will prevent the shipment of eggs from Salt Lake, and give the dealers in hen fruit in Nevada a chance. At last we think we have discovered something that Nevada can find consolation in, in the inter-State Commerce bill.

—As suggested last Fall by the Dayton News Reporter, there will be no fair held at Greenfield this year. This is proper. The Mason Valley country can hold and support one good fair, but no more. If everybody will put a shoulder to the wheel and do what they can to help it along the Lyon County Fair at Wabuska next Fall will be a credit to the country.

Tomorrow's Races.

There will be trotting and running races at Sweeney's track on Decoration Day May 30 as follows:

First Race—Running, half mile dash, free for all. Purse, $100. Four to enter, three to start.

Second Race—Free to all trotters or pacers owned in the State. Half-mile heats, best three in five. Purse $100. Four to enter, three to start; ten percent entrance.

Blood Horse Rules will govern the running races; and National Association Rules govern trotting; entries to close the night before the races.

Death of Miss Whitecomb.

Miss Hattie Whitecomb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Whitecomb, died yesterday at her parents' residence. She was taken sick in March, and died of Bright's disease. She was a member of Miss Dowdell's class, and her sweet disposition made her universally beloved. The funeral will take place from the Episcopal Church today, at 3 o'clock.

At the Prison.

Today, after the services at the Prison, the guitar and harmonica band will discourse music to the prisoners. The prisoners look forward with keen delight to religious services—when the parson brings a good musical combination along.

Decoration Day.

All arrangements for Decoration Day have been completed, and the observance in this city promises as usual to be one of the best in the State.

THE ENTERPRISE.

Something of the Old Paper's History.

The Enterprise today passes out of the hands of its old management, and will hereafter be conducted by Mr. Jesse Taggart its present editor.

The history of the Enterprise is the history of the State. It was originally founded in Genoa, and the type and material was packed over the mountains on mules. It was then brought to Virginia City and run by Joe Goodman and Dennis McCarthy. It was a grand paper in those days, with grand opportunities. Goodman and McCarthy were at that time full of enthusiasm and ambition, and they made a paper that was the pride of Virginia City and the Coast.

The influence of the paper was at its zenith during the war, when party feeling ran high. Goodman, always a staunch Republican, threw his whole soul and staunch pen into the cause, until every edition of the paper was a clarion blast resounded through the Union.

William Sharon ran for the U. S. Senate after the war and the Enterprise refused to support him. He finally purchased the whole plant for $56,000.

It was here that Mark Twain and Dan DeQuille ground out their funny things. Rollen Daggett and Tom Fitch also wrote for the paper, and so did Mrs. Fitch. Daggett finally took charge, and at a fancy salary, but he fished more than he wrote, and being generally in a lazy mood, was not much more than a figure head. Charlie Goodwin then took the helm and Daggett retained the post of editor in chief. Goodwin did most of the writing and Daggett drew most of the pay.

A man named Carlyle was the next to take charge. He was an Eastern man and one day wrote something about the "trend of the Creator's movement." The sagebrush papers took it up and made the editor so ridiculous that he left the Enterprise, started a paper in Genoa and then left the State.

Fred Hart was the next editor. He did not remain long. He made a lively paper, but he trod on several peoples' corns, and was supplanted by Colonel Shaw. Under his charge the Enterprise was a scholarly, well edited paper, but he never seemed to quite grasp the flavor of local politics. During his regime the war between the Enterprise and Chronicle was very warm. Mr. Taggart, of the New York Tribune, succeeded him, Mr. Witcher being temporarily engaged on the interim.

Mr. Taggart has made a clean cut paper of the Enterprise, and during his stay in Nevada has never been trapped into saying a mean thing about anyone with whom he has had controversy. He understands perfectly the nicer ethics of journalism, and has made abiding friends in the profession and elsewhere. He is a thorough newspaper man, a forcible writer and keen logician. The APPEAL wishes the Enterprise continued prosperity under his management.

The Lew Johnson Co.

The next theatrical attraction is the Lew Johnson Company of which the Pasadena Cal. Weekly says: Lew Johnson's Colored Company gave one of their pleasing entertainments at the Pasadena Opera House Saturday evening. The company is composed of genuine colored artists of recognizable ability, and they give a fine performance which, while being refined and strictly moral, is of a character to land the audience in an uproar of laughter and applause. Their songs and jokes are new and catchy and their dancing and specialty work is unsurpassable.

The Ozark Mine.

Yesterday Livingston of the Ozark sent 200 ore sacks to the Ozark mine in Douglas county (formerly the Bismarck.) He proposes to make an ore shipment to the Reno Reduction Works at once. The ore is valued at about $50 per ton. It runs $14 in silver and 63 per cent. of lead.

J. Walter, of Empire, and Livingston own the mine jointly. The ore comes from the 100 level where the ledge is 7 feet wide. It is being rapidly developed and shows increased width and richness as the depth is gained.

GEORGE HARR, Marshal.

Refusal to Confirm Fred Grant.

ALBANY, May 27.—The State Senate adjourned yesterday, sine die. Murphy (Dem.) prior to adjournment, moved to confirm the nomination of Col. Fred D. Grant for Quarantine Commissioner. Mr. Fassett (Rep.) moved to table Mr. Murphy's motion, and it was carried by a party vote, the Republicans voting in the affirmative.

Thomas C. Platt has sent a letter to the Governor declaring that the charges of mismanagement of the Quarantine Department have been false, partisan and malicious, that he (Platt) has long desired to be relieved of the burdensome duties of the office, but would not retire under false accusations and gratify his political enemies; that he was an admirer and supporter of General Grant, when Governor Hill and others were not, and that to test the sincerity of the recent nomination he will resign, if the Governor will promise to appoint Colonel Grant in his place. The letter also attacks the New York Times, accusing it of venal connection with the "Rag Ring."

State Fair Matters.

The State Board of Agriculture met on Friday, President Powning presiding, and Directors Riskey, Winters, Leete, Flint, Evans, Mulcahy and White being present.

Secretary Stoddard was directed to prepare and issue a circular to the prominent ladies and gentlemen of the several counties, with a view of enlisting their best efforts for the Fair of 1897.

The Board also ordered a circular to the several Boards of Commissioners urging their active cooperation in the matter of county exhibits.

After a careful consideration of the finances and future prospects of the institution the Board, by a unanimous vote, directed the President to conclude the purchase of the new fair grounds on the English Mill tract, and the Pavilion from Governor Stevenson.

The Board adjourned subject to the call of the President.

Monaco the Artist.

Mr. Monaco of Eureka, the artist will leave this city on Tuesday. He has been several months among us and during that time executed a great many orders for portraits in oil and crayon. His work is perfectly satisfactory to all his patrons and they will be sorry to have him go. Orders for pictures can be left at any time at Mr. Marston's Gallery and sent to Mr. Monaco at Eureka, his home.

Fisherman's Flies.

Ernest Harris of Sweeney's is an enthusiastic maker of fishing flies. When business is slack in the forenoon he sits behind the bar turning out flies with wonderful rapidity. He is a thorough artist in the delicate trick of fly making and can turn out all of the most approved brands. He is considered authority on the most killing kinds of flies and is himself an expert line caster.
